

ABSTRACT

HUMAN PYRIMIDINE RECEPTOR

The present invention concerns a new receptor having a preference for pyrimidine nucleotides, preferably UTP, or purine nucleotides and UDP, and which has an amino acid sequence having more than 60% homology with the amino acid sequence shown in Figure 1.